

Who will pay for the green transition?

Monday, 29th October 2024, 17:30 – 19:00

Goethe institute
Panenská 33, Bratislava

The green transformation of society is both a necessity and an opportunity for a better and healthier life. But it requires a lot of money. If the financial possibilities of the state are limited, the question arises as to who will pay for it. We should not demand a sufficient financial participation in the costs of the green transformation from those who pollute the environment the most in their way of life, i.e. from the richest? The question is to what extent the state has set up tools and schemes for compensation and support of "green" investments for those households that cannot afford them themselves.

How the richest can be taxed, what resources it would mean for the EU, what the European Parliament can do in this area, our guests will also talk about this in the discussion:

17:30 – 18:30

Panel discussion

- Branislav ONDRUŠ, Member of the European Parliament for Hlas-SD
- Richard FILČÁK, Chief of Prognostic at the Department of Slovak Academy of Sciences

Moderation: Brigita SCHMÖGNEROVÁ, President, Proforum

18:30 – 19:00

Public discussion